

Southern Fellowship of Woodworkers

Lecture by Jeremy Broun FRSA

25 September 2014

Two sessions: 45 mins + 30 mins + questions

The lecture is called 'Jeremy Broun – One man and his craft' and co-incides (celebrates?) the launch of his new e-book of the same title.

The illustrated talk using slides and short videos (Powerpoint) plots Jeremy's career from 1972 following his passion rather than a business plan and highlights important events and designs with some unusual anecdotes. The talk then focuses on how Jeremy makes things in wood, his influences and design rationale, and shows that his work says something new about material, technique, form or function, referring to examples and focusing on the router and new jointing methods and construction strategies. The talk aims to give a broad perspective ranging from advanced cabinet design to a Jeremy crosses the boundaries of carpentry, cabinetry and micro catamaran that fits into the back of a small car! Brief questions are welcomed throughout with a Question time at the end. Examples of furniture included & books and DVDs for sale.
